TEACHING: Teaching is art and science both. A teacher himself is a life long learner. Teaching has been my passion since childhood. Teaching is not merely a service, profession or a job, but it is pillar of the society. I want to be, what Robert Frost said : I am not a Teacher, but an awakener. Teaching should not only be dissemination of knowledge what you have gained, but it should also be such that young minds can be ignited to think new and innovative. I also want to give my clinical and surgical knowledge which I have gained till now working in different institutions with many great teachers and surgeons, to next generation of surgeons.
